

*Will you be a good
grammar detective?*

Add the missing punctuation to these sentences.

- 1) Would you like to come to my house
- 2) What a fun adventure we had
- 3) Did you have a good time at the beach
- 4) I had a nice time today
- 5) How horrid he is
- 6) Stir the mixture carefully

Tick the box where the commas should go.

1. Tom saw a strange old wooden box in the distance.

2. I could see the small white house amongst the huge green trees.

3. As I tiptoed through the squelchy brown mud I could see the trees swaying in the cold wind

Add the missing punctuation to these sentences.

- 1) Would you like to come to my house?
- 2) What a fun adventure we had!
- 3) Did you have a good time at the beach?
- 4) I had a nice time today.
- 5) How horrid he is!
- 6) Stir the mixture carefully.

Answers: How did you do?

Tick the box where the commas should go.

1. Tom saw a strange old wooden box in the distance.

2. I could see the small white house amongst the huge green trees.

3. As I tiptoed through the squelchy brown mud I could see the trees swaying in the cold wind

Match these words to the correct shortened version.

It will	shouldn't
should not	It's
It is	It'll
has not	don't
do not	wouldn't
would not	hasn't

Circle the joining words (conjunctions) in each sentence.

Daniel felt really excited because he was going to Samuel's birthday party.

Don't go near the edge or you might fall in.

Tim had five sandwiches for his lunch but was still hungry.

It is 7 o'clock when I go to bed.

Match these words to the correct shortened version.

It will	shouldn't
should not	It's
It is	It'll
has not	don't
do not	wouldn't
would not	hasn't

Answers: How did you do?

Circle the joining words (conjunctions) in each sentence.

Daniel felt really excited because he was going to Samuel's birthday party.

Don't go near the edge or you might fall in.

Tim had five sandwiches for his lunch but was still hungry.

It is 7 o'clock when I go to bed.